'Best father you could ever imagine'

CHILDREN In a memorial to Michael Jackson yesterday that featured superstars Mariah Carey and Stevie Wonder, the moment that may be best remembered came when his 11-year-old daughter Paris spoke a few heart-wrenching words.

Paris was quietly ushered onstage with her brothers as the nearly two-hour event wound down to the strains of Jackson's charity single We Are the World, then appeared to catch even members of her family off guard by addressing the hushed crowd at Staples Center in Los Angeles.

"I just want to say, ever since I was born, daddy has been the best father you could ever imagine, and I just wanted to say I love him so much," Paris said, sobbing.

To gasps from the throng of about 18,000 people, she then turned and buried her face in Janet Jackson's arms.

Millions tune in to watch final farewell for legendary King of Pop

Mariah Carey, Stevie Wonder and Usher sang emotional farewells yesterday to Michael Jackson, who was hailed as "the greatest entertainer that ever lived."

Some 18,000 fans, family members and friends took part in a public memorial for Jackson in the Los Angeles sports arena where the singer had rehearsed the day before his death for a highly anticipated series of comeback concerts.

Jackson's brothers, each wearing a single sequined glove in homage to his signature look, carried the singer's golden casket into the downtown Staples Center. The two-hour memorial focused on Jackson's musical achievements, overshadowed in the last 10 years by the darker side of the singer's life, including his humiliating 2005 trial and acquittal on charges of child sex abuse.

Civil rights leader Rev. Al Sharpton, who has lashed out at media coverage of the bizarre aspects of Jackson's life, had a message for the singer's three children — Prince Michael, 12, Paris, 11, and Prince Michael II, 7.

"Wasn't nothing strange about your daddy. It was strange what your daddy had to deal with," he said, to cheers.

Police estimated more than 250,000 people descended on the area while TV and online executives pegged the audience as "in the millions."

Taxes won't be rising: Premier

Liquor tax to be removed

AMY GREGSON
for Metro Calgary

The premier put a swift end to the speculation yesterday surrounding potential tax increases in Alberta.

Premier Ed Stelmach made it clear that an increase in taxes, including corporate or personal taxes, or a provincewide sales tax will not help Alberta out of a recession.

"There comes a time you have to show leadership and be very clear with Albertans," said Stelmach. "As long as I'm premier of this province there will be no tax increases."

Stelmach said they might have to tap more into the sustainability fund.

"That's our savings fund. That's why we kept that money aside, so that we could draw on those savings to cushion the dramatic drop in our revenue, but protect the programs that are so dear to Albertans."

Stelmach said that part of

"no tax increases" includes rescinding the liquor tax.

The liquor tax brought in approximately $180 million in revenue, said Stelmach.

The liquor tax will be rescinded once the province meets with the liquor board.

Ed Stelmach

The government still plans on investing in and building public infrastructure.

Stelmach said the government has a solid plan to get Alberta through this recession and will continue to promote the province as a place to invest.

Scott Hennig of the Canadian Taxpayers Federation welcomed the premier's pledge. "He's made a big promise today and it's excellent news for taxpayers," he said.

Province, police to aid mentally ill

SUPPORT The Province of Alberta and the Calgary Police Service are teaming up to combat mental illness by getting patients the support they need.

The police and Crisis Team will help those with mental illness who commit non-violent crimes and deter them from future involvement in crime.

"We as police have not been able to deal with those folks on the streets and it's a rapidly growing problem," said Rick Hanson, chief of Calgary Police Service.

The two-person teams will consist of registered nurses and social workers.

The three-year pilot project will cost $2.54 million.

Residents angry over meth clinic

Braeside residents outraged over a recently opened methadone clinic in an area strip mall were packed to the rafters of the community centre to voice their opposition.

The fire marshal was forced to turn a line of hundreds away, and virtually all in attendance were whipped into a frenzy over issues surrounding the clinic's operation and clientele.

Darla Meijer, who lives about four blocks from the clinic, spoke out against the business that has been operating since Monday, allegedly without letting area resi-

"My concern is that my daughter is going to be a teenager and she wants some freedom in the community," said Meijer. "I can't do anything about the drug addicts or drug deals, but I have an opportunity to do something about this and it doesn't have to be here."

Ald. Brian Pincott fielded questions from angry residents concerned the city would allow a methadone clinic in their community.

"My goal is that if Second Chance is going to be in our community it is up to us as a community to make sure it works as best as it can," said Pincott.

Pincott and the community association are planning to work together to come up with a plan to deal with residents' concerns.

Warming to a target

Canada to agree to ambitious climate change goal

Canada is set to agree to a tough global warming target of no more than two degrees Celsius at a gathering of world economic leaders in Italy that gets underway today, an official said.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper arrived last night and travelled to the quake-shattered city of L'Aquila, where the summit of the Group of Eight industrialized countries will be held.

Hours before landing in Rome, a senior Harper official signalled a different approach to climate change — one that environmental activists and European governments had hoped for.

Press secretary Dimitri Soudas suggested Canada would not oppose a declaration that global warming should not be allowed to exceed two degrees from pre-industrial temperature averages.

It's a limit that the European Union, the U.K. and some developing countries have argued is critical to curbing widespread environmental damage.

"We're relatively open and supportive of that," said Soudas.

Agreement on a limit to global temperature rises is believed to require tougher short and mid-term actions by countries such as Canada to cut back on their greenhouse gases.

The Conservative government, though it endorses the fight against global warming, has postponed tough regulations on large industrial "greenhouse gas" emitters.

Chinese unrest continues

Han Chinese armed with iron bars and machetes roamed Urumqi city yesterday seeking revenge on Uighurs for bloody ethnic clashes two days earlier which killed 156 and wounded more than 1,000.

Outnumbered riot police used tear gas to try to disperse thousands of angry protesters who flooded the capital of the northwestern region of Xinjiang. In a sign of government anxiety about the unrest, the city's Communist Party boss Li Zhi took to the streets to plead with protesters to return home, and overnight traffic restrictions, originally announced as a curfew, took effect to halt the violence.

Security forces intervened to stop fighting, breaking up a battle between hundreds of rock-throwing Han and Uighurs and forcing a Han mob to leave a building in a Uighur area, a Reuters reporter said. There were no reports of deaths. Riot police stood warily by as crowds vented their anger by throwing rocks at a mosque and smashing restaurants and shops owned by Uighurs, a Turkic people who are largely Muslim and share linguistic and cultural bonds with Central Asia.

Home early

• Chinese President Hu Jintao abandoned plans to attend a G8 summit in Italy today, returning home with the ethnic violence in of Xinjiang. The official state-run Xinhua news agency said Hu had left for China "due to the situation."

If only Uighurs were Buddhist

Pity the Uighurs — the wrong kind of minority fighting the wrong kind of enemy.

In China's worst ethnic unrest in years, Uighurs took to the streets of Urumqi, capital of Xinjiang, on Sunday. They are believed to have been angered by government handling of a June clash between Han Chinese and Uighur factory workers in southern China, where two Uighurs died, news agencies reported.

The Chinese government quickly blamed exiled separatists, arrested dozens and tried to curb information flow by stifling the Internet. Yesterday, Han Chinese armed with iron bars and machetes went looking for revenge on Uighurs.

But as Reuters pointed out, the underlying cause of the unrest most likely was long-standing economic, cultural and religious grievances that have built up among the Uighurs over decades of tight central rule.

If only the Uighurs were Buddhists like the Tibetans, who just 18 months ago had their own uprising in Tibet's capital Lhasa. We'd be having Free Xinjiang concerts already courtesy of Bjork, Sting, Bono and all those other one-named saviors of the poor and oppressed.

If only the Uighurs were a minority in a country that didn't produce half the goods we use and which wasn't quickly threatening to turn into a superpower. Perhaps then the U.S. State Department would issue more threatening words of its own. Instead, they're Muslim and us Muslims don't get much love these days. And just as importantly, the Uighurs are facing off with the wrong kind of enemy. If the "West" ignores Uighurs because they're not as cuddly as the Tibetans or their leader the Dalai Lama, then where are the Uighurs' fellow Muslims? Uighurs are a Turkic people who are largely Muslim.

Many Muslims pay attention only when the U.S. and Israel are doing the oppressing. China is the wrong kind of enemy. Look at Darfur, where the suffering goes ignored because its victims are black and because those who are creating the misery in Darfur are not Americans or Israelis. We only pay attention when America and Israel behave badly.

Speaking of Darfur, China is one of Sudan's biggest trade and arms partners. Sudanese President Omar Bashir, who last year wanted to try a British teacher for insulting Muslims by naming a class teddy bear "Mohammed," won't be rushing to condemn Chinese oppression of Uighurs.

So perhaps Israel can save the day and invade Xinjiang.

Dumping on the 'centre of the universe'

TheWestView

Paul Sullivan

metronews.ca/thewestview

If there's one thing that unites all Canadians, even les citoyens of the Nation of Quebec, it's our sea-to-shining-sea disdain for our largest city, Toronto.

I should make it clear this bad attitude is a defence against Toronto's tendency to fancy itself as the centre of the known universe (CKU), its boundaries Cottage Country to the north, Mississauga to the west, Scarberia to the east and New York to the south.

Oh, and there's an Ottawa bureau.

There was a time I thought Toronto was merely misunderstood, but that was until I lived and worked in the CKU for our "national" broadcaster, which had a bad case of Toronto-itis, no matter how it pretended to behave otherwise.

I soon learned all the important news came from Toronto, while the rest of the country was a vast and chilly hinterland, good for soft features about cute animals and farmers, out standing in their fields, suffering.

Of course, Toronto's myopia infuriates the rest of us 30 million Canadians, so we make remorseless fun of its endless pretensions, especially its hockey team, which has been wilting on the tree since 1967, the last time the Leafs won the Stanley Cup and the last time there were six teams in the NHL.

This fact alone is usually enough to haunt the nightmares of Torontonians, but now they have a real nightmare to contend with. We're talking trash, Toronto trash in particular, thanks to a civic workers' strike that's gone on for two weeks and continues with no end in sight.

Garbage is being temporarily dumped at various locations around town, including Christie Pits, which is Toronto's idea of a park. Anyone from out of town might not be able to tell the difference, but believe me, Torontonians can and the trash is driving them nuts. Of course, that's all they can talk about; forget the rest of us and our cute animals.

If you've ever spent a summer in Toronto, you'll never forget that toxic soup of heat, humidity and the aroma of millions of bags of trash piled up on the curb on pickup day, seeping sludge. Now it's like that 24/7. Only worse. You can smell it all the way to Vancouver, past the noses of the suffering farmers, as if they didn't have enough to worry about.

Canada's self-proclaimed "national" paper, the Globe and Mail, likes to call Vancouver's Downtown Eastside Canada's Slum, based on some patronizing notion. We should return the favour and adopt Toronto and its trash for the duration of the strike so our greatest city does not feel abandoned in its hour of need.

Tonight on the National with Peter Mansbridge: Toronto: Canada's Dump.

Bankruptcies spike by 31% over May 2008

Bankruptcies in Canada continued to soar in May versus year-earlier levels as consumers succumbed to debt loads and job losses, but the tally improved modestly from April.

Results released yesterday by the Office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy Canada showed a total of 10,364 bankruptcies registered in May, up 31 per cent from May of last year. Last month's total fell nearly 10 per cent below April's 11,465 bankruptcies.

Industry experts were doubtful that May marked a turning point in a string of soaring bankruptcies in recent months. "I'm not confident that it's the light at the end of the tunnel," said Andy Fisher, a bankruptcy trustee with A. Farber & Partners. "June was probably the busiest month we've ever had," catering to Canadians being chased by creditors, he said.

"There's so much more credit available to people than there was a generation ago," Fisher said. Amid widespread job losses and reduced incomes "struggling people see credit as a way to get by," he said. "Attitudes have changed. It's not a stigma to have credit."

But many who have embraced credit clearly can't keep up. The May figures include 9,900 consumer bankruptcies, up about 34 per cent from a year earlier.

jumped 31 per cent in May from a year earlier, though they were down nearly 10 per cent from the previous month.

The Ivey Purchasing Managers Index rose to 58.2 in June from 48.4, while markets expected a rise to just 50.3.

A reading of 50.0

shows activity stayed flat from the previous month, while a higher reading means an increase and a lower reading reflects a slowing.

June and April have been the only months since last November in which the index was above 50.

Millan Mulraine, economics strategist at TD Securities emphasized that on a seasonally adjusted basis, the Ivey index remained below the 50 threshold.

"It suggests the Canadian economy is continuing to contract, even though at a diminishing pace," he said.

Costlier meat in store for N. Americans amid culls

FARMING Higher meat prices may be in store for consumers next year as hard-hit North American farmers thin herds of cattle and pigs.

High feed costs and slumping pork exports due to fears over influenza A (H1N1), also known as swine flu, are dogging livestock producers, with Canadian farmers reeling from narrowed U.S. access for live animals because of country of origin labelling and severe drought.

"Consumers are going to pay more for meat — they have to," said Steve Meyer president of Iowa-based Paragon Economics, who sees herd downsizing lifting meat prices in late 2010. "There are going to be record-high prices in the U.S. for all species by then. Everyone has to cover these higher costs."

The team has scheduled a press conference tomorrow at which he is expected to make his announcement.

Sakic played his entire career for the Quebec/Colorado franchise and won two Stanley Cups there.

In 1,378 games, Sakic posted 625 goals and 1,016 assists for a total of 1,641 points, good for eighth on the NHL's all-time point leaders list.

Sports in brief

FLAMES The Calgary Flames have re-signed forward Jamie Lundmark. Terms were not disclosed. Lundmark appeared in 27 games for Calgary last season, tallying eight goals and 16 points. In 259 career contests, he has notched 35 goals and 52 helpers.

FORMULA ONE Canada's Jacques Villeneuve wants to return to Formula One as part of the expanded series from 2010. The 1997 world champion from Irberville, Que., last raced in F1 in 2006, pulling out after 12 rounds following his exit from BMW Sauber. The 38-year-old has reportedly spoken to unnamed team principals about the possibility of a seat.

SETTLEMENT A baseball fan who says he was kicked out of a Yankees game because he left his seat during God Bless America has settled a lawsuit against New York City and the team. The city did not admit liability and will give Bradford Campeau-Laurion of Queens about $10,000.

Grogs Creature Shop brings passion to puppets

Backstage Pass

RAFAEL BRUSILOV
for Metro Canada

Playing with puppets is serious business for Jason Hopley and Jamie Shannon, co-founders of The Grogs Creature Shop in Toronto.

The two passionate artists have done projects for heavyweights like Disney, Nickelodeon, Teletoon and the CBC and have set their sights on feature films next. Their pre-school series Nanalan, which runs on the CBC and PBS networks, won a Gemini Award and their newest series Big & Small is already a fresh hit on Treehouse TV.

Hopley believes the popularity of The Grogs' distinctive characters comes from the humanity they try to infuse into the puppets.

"We try to make things real — we're not going for that saccharine quality. We strive to bring a real humanness to the characters," Hopley said.

Best friends since they attended the Claude Watson School for the Arts in Toronto's Willowdale neighbourhood, Hopley and Shannon embody a fairytale story of two self-taught artists who have found success creating, writing and producing all their own work.

After leaving school, Hopley and Shannon spent two years at YTV, starting in 1993, creating dozens of puppet characters and performing live three-minute short bits while building up their skills on the fly.

"We just learned from doing, on live TV. It was the best learning ground," Shannon said.

The whirlwind years at

"I wake up every morning and play with toys. If I died tomorrow, I'd pretty much be a happy man."

Jason Hopley

YTV were instrumental in developing Hopley and Shannon's skills since they had no formal training and Hopley is still amazed at the level of responsibility and creativity YTV allowed them to have.

"We were just two 19-year-old guys doing improv live-to-air across Canada — I still can't believe it," Hopley said.

Wanting to do their own thing, Hopley and Shannon left YTV to start The Grogs, spending the first few years developing characters, building puppets and trying to break out professionally.

At the start they had to scrounge cash together for glue, felt and other materials while building puppets in an ex-girlfriend's mom's basement. Hopley admits they even nabbed a throw-away foam mattress or two for spare parts.

"We were broke. A lot," Hopley said.

Nowadays each puppet their studio creates costs no less than $2,000 to produce and budgets for their projects can run in the millions.

Hopley admits living his creative dreams every day is a highly satisfying career.

"I wake up every morning and play with toys. If I died tomorrow, I'd pretty much be a happy man."

Rocktagon a party for the senses

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

Rock-on, Calgary Stampede visitors.

Young and old alike will enjoy the new Bell Getaway in the Big Four with a 360 degree sound system cool dancers and all the latest in technology according to officials.

The busy centre looks much like a night club according to Nicole Smith, who brought her three kids to check out the fun.

"It reminds me of a nightclub and I love the circular video screens and the sound. Plus obviously my kids get a kick out of it," Smith said while her kids danced around on the floor.

Be prepared to be mesmerized by the sights and sounds at the new and improved Bell Getaway at the Stampede grounds.

Showing every 30 minutes the Rocktagon is also an inspiration to aspiring dancers like 12-year-old Tyler Matheson.

"I like watching the break-dancers and they let me up with them to show my moves and learn some new ones too," Matheson said.

Kids can enjoy Nintendo Wii and parents can enjoy the break plus it's the only one of its kind in North America, Marise Auffray of the Calgary Stampede said.

"It's just massive sound and the lighting is incredible. There's nothing else like it on the park," she added.

The dance crew street sessions and the Groovaloes will also perform daily at various times.

Also new to the Bell Getaway is the opportunity for visitors to create their own cowboy slogans on T-shirts from The Rocket, and guests can also customize their own tattoos.

Mandy Locker said she plans on creating a T-shirt that incorporates modern cowgirls and deejays.

"I love music and just want a sexy girl playing some records," she said.

Hard partying can come at a cost

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

For many, the midway, rodeo and grandstand are enough — but for others, 10 days at the Stampede is a time to party hard.

But, there's often a painful price to pay.

Metro trekked around to watering holes on the Stampede grounds to find out how some Stampede-goers remedy the effects of consumption the night before.

"This is my second week of hangovers, so I just think another week of Stampede will help."
Pete Schulli

Nashville North dwellers Pete Schulli and Andrew Beattie, both 21, agree that their hangover cures consist of more drinking.

"Keep drinking and drink more. This is my second week of hangovers, so I just think another week of Stampede will help," Schulli said.

"Caesars and pancakes help," Beattie added. "It's a deadly combination. I think I will try that tomorrow."

For the Johnsons though, sleep and laziness is their cure for the previous evening's debauchery.

"Sleep and do nothing.

When I was younger I would get up and go for a run, but I'm getting too old for that now," said Ryan Johnston, tipping his glass back for another sip.

His wife said she just prefers not to drink too much the night before. "I never did like the next morning much and I never wanted to chase it with more drinks," she said.

Calgary Stampede

A city within the city

KRISTA SYLVESTER

krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

If the Calgary Stampede were a city, it would be the third largest city in the province, according to officials.

For just 10 days out of the year, Stampede Park becomes the third most populated city with an average of 120,000 daily visitors spilling through the food, midway, rides and inside attractions.

"It's pretty amazing to watch Stampede Park grow into a city, almost overnight," said Calgary Stampede vice-president Paul Rosenberg. "It may only be 10 days, but we have the necessary infrastructure in place to deal with the needs of a small city."

Within 193 acres, the Stampede has shopping, en-

"It may only be 10 days, but we have the necessary infrastructure in place to deal with the needs of a small city."

Paul Rosenberg, Stampede vice-president

tertainment, food, amenities, parking, medical services, police, recycling and even diverse communities, Rosenberg said.

Stampede senior manager Duane Horpinuk said more than 3,200 people were recruited and now employed at the Calgary Stampede in various positions.

"This year we are employing a large number of staff strictly for food services during the 10 days. Everyone is fully trained and we also have health and safety inspectors on site daily," he said.

But part of maintaining a city is also maintaining the environment, Stampede operation manager Gerry McHugh said.

"We take our environmental responsibility seriously," McHugh said, adding there are staff and volunteers cleaning and maintaining the park daily.

The Calgary Stampede recycles 10,000 plastic beer cups from Nashville North every year, not to mention various other recyclables. There are 250 beverage recycling barrels on site.

Regardless of the size of the park and the amount of people, one thing is for certain, park officials say: This is the greatest outdoor show on Earth, and a city within a city.

The number of people on the Stampede grounds at any given time would make it the equivalent of the third largest city in the province.

Don't let weather rain on your day at Stampede

KRISTA SYLVESTER

Don't let a little rain get you down this week, there is still a lot to do at the Calgary Stampede.

"The Western Oasis is something you won't want to miss, with or without rain," according to Stampede spokesper-

"They have the latest in technology, and break-dancers, and everyone always has a good time."

Many Stampede visitors just run inside for cover when the skies open up, and come out again when the sun returns, including Dana Messing.

"I won't let it ruin my day. There is always lots to see inside," she said.

Metro asks: How much are you willing to spend on midway games?

Kirk Johnson

A: Nothing, nothing at all. Nada. Zero. Because the house always wins.

John Brassard

A: I'm not spending any but my kids are. They have their own money to spend. One has $10, one has $30 and one has $80 and I am sure it will all be gone.

Pat Perry

A: We are spending between $40 and $50 each; just because it's a lot of fun, but we don't always win.

Scott McPherson

A: Probably nothing actually because I think the games are kind of fixed and you can never win so it costs too much.

Hip to be Nissan Cube

Trendy model aims to be 'home on wheels' for young drivers

LORNE DRURY
for Metro Canada

It's been said many times before that everything old is new again in the automotive world.

Take Nissan's new Cube compact wagon.

Although it's a newcomer to the North American stage for 2009 after making its debut in Japan way back in 1998, the Cube's squared-off design is really not all that new.

Think back to the early days of the automobile and cars that we remember like the Ford Model A and Model T. Both had that boxy, squared-off look that was common with automobiles of the day.

Fast forward to 2009 and the Nissan Cube enters a marketplace already featuring the Kia Soul and the Honda Element with similar "box on wheels" type designs in a marketplace that for years has been dominated by vehicles with curvy, flowing lines.

Nissan is hoping the Cube resonates with a younger audience thanks to its, well, Cube-like design.

Because of its boxy, unique design, the Cube is both functional and distinctive in an entry-level

This third-generation Nissan Cube is now available across Canada.

2009 Nissan Cube

Type: Compact entry-level wagon

Price: $16,998-$21,498

Engine: 1.8-litre 16-valve DOHC four-cylinder engine (122 hp, 127 lb/ft) with six-speed manual transmission optional CVT automatic

Highlights

- Ideal for urban driving
- Roomy interior
- Fashionable

segment made up largely of look-alike vehicles.

And to allow customers to further personalize their Cubes, a variety of accessories are being offered right from launch time rather than a few months down the road as usually happens with a new model.

Among the accessories is a funky interior accent illumination package that allows the driver to select from 20 different colours or have the colours cycle automatically. More than 40 other "personalization options" are available including an under-body package featuring spoilers and body cladding.

Already available at dealerships in Canada, the Cube is offered in two trim levels. Both offer the same 122 hp 1.8-litre four-cylinder engine, starting at $16,998 for a six-speed manual and $18,298 with a continuously variable (CVT) automatic transmission.

The key to the Cube's success, Nissan believes, is that it is affordable, economical and functional, yet at the same time fashionable.

The interior can be seen as a "home away from home" or a room on wheels for the digital generation that is always connected, thus the optional technology package not usually offered in entry-level vehicles. Despite its compact size on the outside, the Cube is surprisingly roomy inside with its high roofline and wide stance. There is seating for five and the headliner has an unusual "water drop" ripple effect.

The Cube is a vehicle ideally suited to city driving, with a short turning circle (10 m or 32.8 ft), a short hood that makes it easier to park in tight situations and good rear visibility.

Cube giveaway

- Nissan Canada recently awarded the Cube to 50 Canadians for the creativity displayed through Hypercube, the social media campaign. The winners were announced at events simulcast in Toronto (pictured), Montreal and Vancouver.

New life for the Neues Museum

After more than 60 years in ruins, the Neues Museum on Berlin's Museum Island will re-open its doors on Oct. 16. It will house Egyptian, pre- and early history and classical antiquities collections, and feature the bust of Egyptian Queen Nefertiti, left, who was described as "the world's most beautiful woman." The re-opening also marks the first time in over 70 years that all five museums on the island will be open to the public.

Royal and retro

Living Lounge Hostel, Lisbon: This hostel feels more like a quirky artist's studio in Baixa than a backpackers pad. Touches of baroque influence the decoration, with heavy gilt frames, scarlet walls and a chandelier made from crystal shot glasses. Seventeen artists helped with the decoration; one dorm by graffiti artist Dirty Cop evokes author Edgar Allan Poe with its eerie mural of black trees.

The dining room hosts intimate gatherings lit by flashing fairy lights, the garden room has trimmed artificial grass and the vintage barber's chair in the lounge is perfect for afternoon snoozes.

Dinner is served every night at 8:30 p.m. sharp and costs about $20 for a hearty four-course meal. Prices per night from about $35 for dorms and $90 for private rooms; livingloungehostel.com.

Natural Touch

Imm Eco Chiang Mai, Bangkok: Set in a lush tropical garden close to the buzzing Chiang Mai city, Imm Eco focuses on being green and natural. The interiors burst with colour — lime greens and fuchsia against wooden floors and the airy open-plan spaces double as yoga studios. The outdoor swimming pool is perfect for cooling down in. Dorms sleep up to 12 people, great for those on a shoestring budget, but individual rooms are available.

The restaurant, HiHi@ Barn, is all thatched wood and dangling light bulbs and serves a simple menu using organic produce from the gardens. Prices per night from about $12 for dorms and $48 for private rooms night; immhotel.com.

When I Love You, Beth Cooper hits theatres this Friday, it will be the latest movie to turn the loser into lothario.

The story of a nerdy valedictorian winning the affection of the hot girl isn't just a familiar premise; it's also been consistently popular with movie audiences throughout the years.

Whether it's Jerry Lewis' geeky scientist inventing a potion to gain popularity in The Nutty Professor or the tale of two dweebs finally getting the girls in Superbad, Hollywood has always had an obsession with nerd love.

"The idea of nerds has become cool, even if nerds themselves aren't," recently stated Benjamin Nugent in a L.A. Times article. The author of American Nerd: The Story of My People, Nugent has made a career on deliberating dorks.

Although he acknowledges the ambiguous etymology of "nerd" stretches back to its appearance in Dr. Seuss' 1950 book, If I Ran the Zoo, the recent obsession with adoring dweebs can be traced to more current works.

"If you look at shows like The O.C., the Seth Cohen character (played by Adam Brody) is a nerd," said Nugent. "But he became a heartthrob, and I think that was really something new."

However, even before dorks became teenage darlings, producers have admired stories that portray Denis Cooverman (Paul Rust) and Beth Cooper (Hayden Panettiere) get to know one another over a long, wild and memorable night.

the nerd as unlikely seducer. Here's a brief look at the rise of geek love:

THE '80s: From explicitly-titled Revenge of the Nerds to the freak favorite Can't Buy Me Love, the '80s were inexplicably a fertile decade for producing nerd love stories. Maybe it was because, in hindsight, we all dressed like dweebs in 1985.

JOHN HUGHES: The greatest comedies of John Hughes still influence filmmakers today with their representation of nerds acquiring unlikely affection. Whether it's Sixteen Candles, Pretty in Pink or the dorky magnum opus Weird Science, Hughes knew how to tap into seducing our inner geek heart.

Movie profile

THE DIGITAL AGE: Much of the recent popularity of nerds has been attributed to the computer age's influence on media. With great fortunes amassed by the likes of Microsoft founder Bill Gates comes the inherent suggestion that intelligent geeks are more likely to succeed and thus attract the ladies.

THE MORAL: I should've obviously taken computer class way more seriously in Grade 8.

Anna engaged?

Anna Kournikova has reportedly got engaged. The tennis player — who has been dating Enrique Iglesias on and off for eight years — has been wearing a large diamond ring on her wedding finger. FEMALEFIRST.CO.UK

Contenders for Polaris a diverse group

MUSIC The race to crown the best Canadian album of 2008-09 has begun, with the announcement of the Polaris Music Prize shortlist yesterday.

The top 10 acts, as chosen by 182 journalists from across the country, are a diverse group, with a hardcore group, a rapper, a Francophone band and two roots acts all vying for the $20,000 prize.

Since the winner won't be announced until Sept. 21, music fans can spend the summer debating who deserves to take home the prize. To help get the conversation started, we've reviewed all of the nominated albums online.

From Iran to Runway's top 4

TV Maryam Massoumi may not have won Canada's Next Top Model, but she left the show with a new understanding of what it means to be Canadian.

Massoumi, 18, from North Vancouver, B.C., immigrated to Canada from Iran two years ago.

The remaining four women faced off in a runway challenge on last night's episode. The hopefuls had to march delicate museum-piece dresses made by Canadian designers down the runway, being careful not to tear them.

Despite warnings about the garments' fragility, Massoumi accidentally tore a section of a dress while trying to help the seamstresses fitting her. The incident ultimately sent her packing.

Karl May and The Wild West
Sergio Leone made spaghetti Westerns ... so should we call Karl May's stories "sauerkraut Westerns"? May's tales of the American West remain hugely popular in his homeland, and this new special visits with the May devotees who immerse themselves in his version of the West at theme parks and festivals. You'll also meet American Indians and native Canadians who work such events despite finding them both distasteful and historically inaccurate. 8 PM on APTN

Anna and Kristina's Grocery Bag

What's a flexitarian? No, it's not someone who worships body-builders. The word refers to people who eat a mostly vegetarian diet but don't completely abstain from meat. In the new episode "Flexitarian Cooking," Anna and Kristina attempt to create a meal that will satisfy carnivores and vegetarians alike — no matter how flexible or inflexible they are. They also perform a taste test on tofu. 9 PM on W

Katie launches dance fund

HOT STEPPER Katie Holmes has teamed up with Hair-spray director Adam Shankman and reality TV guru Nigel Lythgoe to launch a dance scholarship fund, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The Hollywood actress, who is set to appear on Lythgoe's U.S. show So You Think You Can Dance later this month, has joined forces with the pair and Dancing With the Stars judge Carrie Ann Inaba to set up the Dizzy Feet Foundation.

The scholarship organization gives underprivileged youngsters the opportunity to take part in dance programs and win grants to enrol in accredited dance studios, reports Daily Variety.

Holmes says, "I think it's important for children to experience music and dance."

"Every child should have the opportunity to discover what it is they like and have access to the very best in that pursuit."

The Batman Begins star will show off her moves on the dancefloor during a special 100th episode of So You Think You Can Dance on July 23, in which she will perform a tribute to Judy Garland.

Lohan sued over her new tanning spray

LAWSUIT Looks like Lindsay Lohan is in trouble again, only this time it's in the courtroom.

Lohan is being sued by St. Petersburg, Fla., chemist Jennifer Sunday, who claims the actress and her partner on the project, Lorit Simon, stole the formula for Lohan's new Sevin Nyne self-tanning spray, according to the St.

Petersburg Times.

"We are certainly looking for the profits that are being generated right now from that product," attorney Marcia Cohen tells the newspaper.

"If Ms. Lohan and Ms. Simon and their companies and their shareholders are profiting from the theft of my client's formula and are profiting from that product, my client is entitled to those proceeds."

Metro Recipe of the Day

Beef Balti

INGREDIENTS:

- 2 tbsp (25 mL) canola oil
- 1 medium onion
- 1 lb (500g) steak
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 1/2 in. (4 cm) piece fresh root ginger
- 1 small, fresh red chilli pepper
- 1 green pepper
- 1 red pepper
- 3 medium tomatoes
- 1/2 lemon
- 1 tbsp (15 mL) garam masala
- 1 tsp (5 mL) ground cumin
- Salt
- GARNISH
- 3 tbsp (45 mL) dried coconut, flaked or shredded
- TO SERVE
- 4 nan breads

METHOD:

1. Preheat oven to low setting to keep beef warm later. Heat 1 tbsp (15 mL) oil in large balti pan, wok, or frying pan. Peel and thinly slice onion; fry over fairly high heat 3-4 minutes, stirring occasionally, until soft and lightly browned.
2. Meanwhile, trim excess fat from beef, then slice into very thin strips. Peel and crush garlic, then peel and grate ginger, and rinse, deseed, and chop chilli pepper. Add all to onion and cook over fairly high heat 5 minutes, stirring occasionally, until beef is lightly coloured. Remove from heat and keep warm in oven.
3. Rinse, deseed, and thinly slice peppers. Add to pan, with remaining oil, if necessary, and continue frying for 3 minutes, stirring occasionally, until softened and lightly browned.

4. Meanwhile, rinse and roughly chop tomatoes, then squeeze juice from lemon and preheat broiler.
5. Stir garam masala and cumin into frying pan and cook, stirring continuously, 1 minute. Add tomatoes, lemon juice, and some salt and simmer, stirring, 3-4 minutes. If mixture becomes dry, add little water.
6. Sprinkle nan breads with water and broil about 1 minute per side. Return beef to pan and heat through. Sprinkle with coconut and serve with nan bread.
